

Recent Posts By Others

Julie Woolsey

How DARE you knock Gluten Free food! I break out in hives from gluten. For some of us, it's NOT a choice. It's hives or no hives. Period!

Like · Comment · 5 hours ago

Bonnie Emm

Gee, thanks a lot for trivializing celiac disease. What's next--peanut allergies? Diabetes?

Like · Comment · 6 hours ago

Beth Dougherty Blair

This was the first time AND the last time I will ever watch your show and have started a campaign on my Facebook page for people who are gluten intolerant and have Celiac disease (YES, these are REAL diagnoses and diseases!) to contact NBC about your "Celiac and gluten intolerance is fake" agenda. How would you like it if you were diagnosed with these and someone hid some cookie crumbs in your food and you spent days being ill to your stomach, or better yet ended up in the hospital with a VERY REAL allergic reaction or dehydration from the horrid puking and diarrhea you got?! Better yet, how would you like it if you were diagnosed with a disease, or how about your 4 yr old child was, and someone repeatedly made fun of you or her saying "it's all in your head!"?! It is ignorant people like you who need to shut their big mouths because every time they open them they show their stupidity and lack of compassion for those who are ill or have had misfortune.

Like · Comment · 7 hours ago

duffman793 41 minutes ago

I'm gluten sensitive, and I know how that sounds, but I get really sick when I eat gluten. It's probably one of the huge causes for the obesity epidemic in this country. But yea, suck a bag a dicks. <3

Reply · 👍 👎

iOS App Reviewer 1 hour ago

I have Celiac Disease, and I am allergic to wheat and gluten. If I eat wheat and gluten, I get really sick and the chance of getting certain cancers are increased by 500% if I eat gluten and wheat. It is a real disease, and one in 120 people have it. So not cool, making fun of something that you don't know anything about, obviously.

Reply · 👍 👎

Daskaar 50 minutes ago

that sucks.
but if we can't make fun of anything because it might offend someone, there'll be nothing left to joke about.

Reply · 1 👍 👎